

CP Rail: Will install 23 “talking” hotbox detectors this year, mainly in western Canada. The railroad already has installed 232 visual-display or printout hotbox detectors on lines near population centers at a cost of $25 million. The units to be installed this year will transmit voice messages to the locomotive cab giving the all clear to the crew, or informing them of the number, type and location of defects spotted.